

Collegial senators get things done

Has anybody noticed that the Gang of Six, who were able to come to a compromise on the debt issue, are made up of older, veteran senators who know and get along with one another? There aren't many of those anymore.

Thank goodness we don't have term limits in the U.S. Senate. As voters, we need to vote for candidates who are good at working in groups, as opposed to my-way-or-the-highway types.

Jan Oakley, Sagamore Hills